

New York Furnishes Greatest Surprise of Election

to early returns. Charles Curtis, former Republican Senator; Congressman George A. Neeley, Democrat, and Representative Victor Murdock, Progressive, engaged in a spirited contest for the seat of Joseph L. Bristow.

SENATORS RE-ELECTED
After hard battles
Senators re-elected as the result of hard battles were Frank B. Brandegee, Republican, of Connecticut, opposed by Governor Simeon E. Baldwin; Albert B. Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, who defeated Representative Maurice Donnelly; John Walter Smith, Democrat, of Maryland; William J. Stone, Democrat, of Missouri; Jacob H. Gallinger, Republican, of New Hampshire, who was opposed by Representative E. B. Stevens.

Democratic Senators in the South were re-elected without difficulty, new Senators from Southern States chosen being Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama and Representative Thomas W. Hardwick, of Georgia.

Former Governor J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat, of Kentucky, was chosen for the long term.

Francis E. McGovern, Republican, was elected, according to the early returns, to succeed Senator Stephenson, Republican, from Wisconsin.

FORMER SPEAKER CANNON

IS RETURNED TO HOUSE
The triumph of former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, Republican, over Frank R. O'Brien, for Representative in the Eighteenth Illinois District, seemed certain on the face of early returns. Other Illinois Republicans who were turned out of the House in the last Democratic landslide, who will be returned to Congress are William B. McKinley, Charles E. Fuller and John A. Starling.

Republicans also made gains in New York, Oscar W. Swift defeating Representative James H. O'Brien in the Ninth District; Rollin B. Sanford defeating Representative Peter G. Teneyck, Walter W. Magee succeeding to the seat of Representative John H. Clancy, while E. L. Haskell, Republican, was elected in the Tenth District.

The defeat of Representative Charles A. Korbly, Democrat, of Indiana, by Merrill Moores, also marked the general trend of Republican gains throughout the country.

Serenio E. Payne, Republican, of New York, one of the oldest members of the House in point of service, was re-elected without difficulty.

Election of State officers resulted in a few turnovers. In New York, Governor Glynn, the Democratic candidate for re-election was defeated decisively by District Attorney Whitman, Republican.

ROOSEVELT'S CANDIDATE

IS LEFT FAR IN THE REAR
Frederick M. Davenport, Progressive nominee, in support of whose candidacy ex-President Roosevelt devoted most of the campaign, was left far in the rear, his vote being exceeded by that of William Sulzer, who was deposed as Governor last year.

In Tennessee there also was a change of party control. Governor Hiram W. Hooper, the Republican incumbent, was defeated by Thomas C. Rye, Democrat.

"In Pennsylvania, where occurred one of the most spirited campaigns, Martin C. Brumbaugh, Republican, early took a long lead over Governor McKim, Democratic candidate for Governor, who was endorsed by the Progressives.

In Ohio, the race for Governor between James M. Cox, Democratic incumbent, and Frank B. Willis, Republican, was close, with Governor Cox in the lead on early returns.

Early returns indicated the re-election of Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Progressive, leading Fredericks, Republican, and Vance McCormack, a slight margin. The senatorial situation also was in doubt, Representative Joseph H. Knowland, Republican; James D. Phelan, Democrat, and Francis J. Heney, Progressive, all showing strength.

In Ohio, the prohibition issue was uppermost. "In Cleveland and Dayton the 'wets' were victorious by large majorities.

ARIZONA IS SAFELY

ON DEMOCRATIC SIDE
PHOENIX, ARIZ., November 3.—Arizona remains in the Democratic column. Early returns indicated the re-election of Governor George P. Hunt, apparently elected by the same plurality. Senators, who were elected by J. L. McCall, Republican, and J. Nelson, Progressive, Hunt ran against Ralph P. Cameron, Republican, and George Young, Progressive, Eugene Shafer, Progressive, was elected to succeed President, also ran in the senatorial race and is tied with the Republican Candidate, Hubbell, for second place with Nelson, Progressive, an insignificant, fourth.

CALIFORNIA LANDSLIDE TO GOVERNOR JOHNSON
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., November 3.—Scattered returns indicate a landslide to Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Progressive candidate for re-election, over Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Republican, and John D. Curtin, Democrat.

For United States Senator, the early returns were too close to hazard a forecast.

At Washington quarters it was

DEATHS

KRACKE—Died, Monday morning at his residence, 29 North Harrison Street, IDA V. KRACKE, wife of Louis C. Kracke. She leaves besides her husband a mother, Mrs. John Talmay, a sister, Mrs. E. C. Kracke, and four children, Louis C. Kracke, Jr., Misses Henrietta, Mary and Garnett Kracke. Funeral at 12 o'clock from St. Andrew's Church, Interment in Interview.

FLEMING—Died, in Lynchburg yesterday, after a long illness, FRANK T. FLEMING, He leaves a wife and four children, also one brother, Elliott Fleming, of Richmond.

WEYAND—Died, at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, November 3, 1914, at his home, 1315 1/2 Street, JOHN W. WEYAND, aged sixty-nine years.

Funeral from St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock THURSDAY morning, November 5, 1914. Interment St. Mary's Cemetery.

MINOR—Entered into rest Sunday, November 1, 1914, at 5 in the afternoon, in Beaumont, Texas, DR. B. BLAKE MINOR, JR., son of Dr. B. Blake Minor and Virginia Otey Minor.

The interment took place TUESDAY MORNING, November 3, at 12 o'clock from Washington, D. C., and St. Louis papers please copy.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY.

MASONIC NOTICE—A stated communication of Temple Lodge No. 2, A. F. & A. M., will be held in Masonic Temple, corner Adams and Broad Streets, FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 6, at 7 P. M. Members of sister lodges and transient brethren are cordially and fraternally invited to be present.

By order of worshipful master, CHAS. H. MASON, Secretary.

asserted that prohibition had been defeated more than two to one.

CONNECTICUT RETURNS

TO REPUBLICAN FOLD
NEW HAVEN, CONN., November 3.—Connecticut returned to the Republican fold to-day. Frank B. Brandegee was re-elected United States Senator over Governor Simeon E. Baldwin by a safe majority. With the vote nearly all counted, indications pointed to election of a solid Republican congressional delegation.

The Progressives, with nearly 35,000 votes last year, polled only a trifle more than 5,000 to-day.

Judge Marcus H. Holcomb, Republican, was elected Governor by a majority of about 10,000. The Senate and House will be Republican.

WILSON'S HOME DISTRICT

ELECTS REPUBLICAN
TRENTON, N. J., November 3.—President Wilson's home congressional district, the Fourth, of New Jersey, to-day elected Elijah C. Hutchinson, Republican, to succeed Congressman Allan B. Walsh, Democrat, by about 2,000 plurality.

Meagre returns indicate strong Republican gains throughout the State, and the Democrats probably will have no more than four or five of the twelve Congressmen. In the present delegation are ten Democrats. The Democrats probably will retain their majority in the State Senate, but apparently have lost control of the Assembly.

ELEVEN REPUBLICANS

ELECTED IN MICHIGAN
DETROIT, MICH., November 3.—Scattered returns late to-night indicate that at least eleven Republican Congressmen have been elected in Michigan, and the two Progressive Congressmen defeated for re-election.

Frank A. Doremus, Democrat, appeared certain of re-election, and Samuel W. W. Beakes, Democrat, was running a close race for re-election with Mark R. Bacon, Republican.

SULLIVAN PRACTICALLY

ASSURED OF ELECTION
CHICAGO, November 3.—At 11 o'clock to-night indications pointed with practical certainty to the election of Roger Sullivan, Democrat, to the United States Senate.

Election of sixteen Republican Congressmen in the State, including the two at large, was claimed by John C. Eversman, secretary of the Republican National Congressional Committee.

OKLAHOMA MAY ELECT

REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR
OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., November 3.—

OBITUARY

Mrs. Laura Overman Mangum.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHAPEL HILL, N. C., November 3.—Mrs. Laura Overman Mangum died at her home here this morning between 4 and 5 o'clock, aged seventy-one years.

Mrs. Mangum was the widow of Rev. R. O. Scott, D. D., a prominent minister of the Methodist Church, and for many years a professor in the University of North Carolina. She was the mother of Miss Juliet Mangum, who made her home with Mrs. D. W. Wilson, of Goldsboro; Dr. Charles Mangum, of the university faculty, and also her brother, Senator Leas.

Charles A. Overman, of Mt. Pleasant; Edwin R. Overman, of Salisbury, and William C. Overman, of Washington. The funeral will be held from the Methodist Church on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

R. O. Scott.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
EAST RADFORD, VA., November 3.—R. O. Scott, an old resident and business man of Radford, died here after a short illness. The funeral will be to-morrow afternoon in the Radford Presbyterian Church.

Frank P. Fleming.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, VA., November 3.—Frank P. Fleming, aged seventy-two years, died late Monday at his home here, his death being very sudden. He was a native of Goosefield County, and served in the Confederate army in the Seventy-fourth Virginia Infantry. He was a member of Westminster Presbyterian Church, and he was survived by the following children: Frank Fleming, Louis Fleming, Miss Louise Fleming, and Clayton Fleming. He also has one brother living—Alexander Fleming, a resident of Richmond.

Mrs. Luella Fulcher.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
AMHERST, VA., November 3.—Mrs. Luella Fulcher, wife of Ed Lee Fulcher, died on Saturday at her home near Amherst, in this county. Mrs. Fulcher is survived by her husband and three children, as follows: Mrs. John Shepley, Lynchburg; Mrs. Berry White, head, of Nelson County, and Marion, Grady, Frank, William, James, Tom and Nancy, all of Amherst. She was two months old. She also leaves a number of sisters and brothers, among whom are W. Frank, and Conrad Bryant and Mrs. Willie Beard.

Houston Thomas.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
AMHERST, VA., November 3.—Houston Thomas, eight-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Thomas, died on Sunday at the home of his parents, after a brief illness. The body was taken to Millboro, in Rich County, where he was buried. His father, Mr. Thomas, is an old home, for burial. His mother, Mrs. J. A. Thomas and W. S. Thomas, of Glasgow, Va., accompanied the remains.

Judge H. C. Morrell.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
AMHERST, VA., November 3.—A telegram has been received here from Judge H. C. Morrell, father of Mrs. W. K. Smiley, of this place. Judge Morrell, an elderly man, died at his home here several days ago, at his father's bedside.

Dr. B. Blake Minor, Jr.

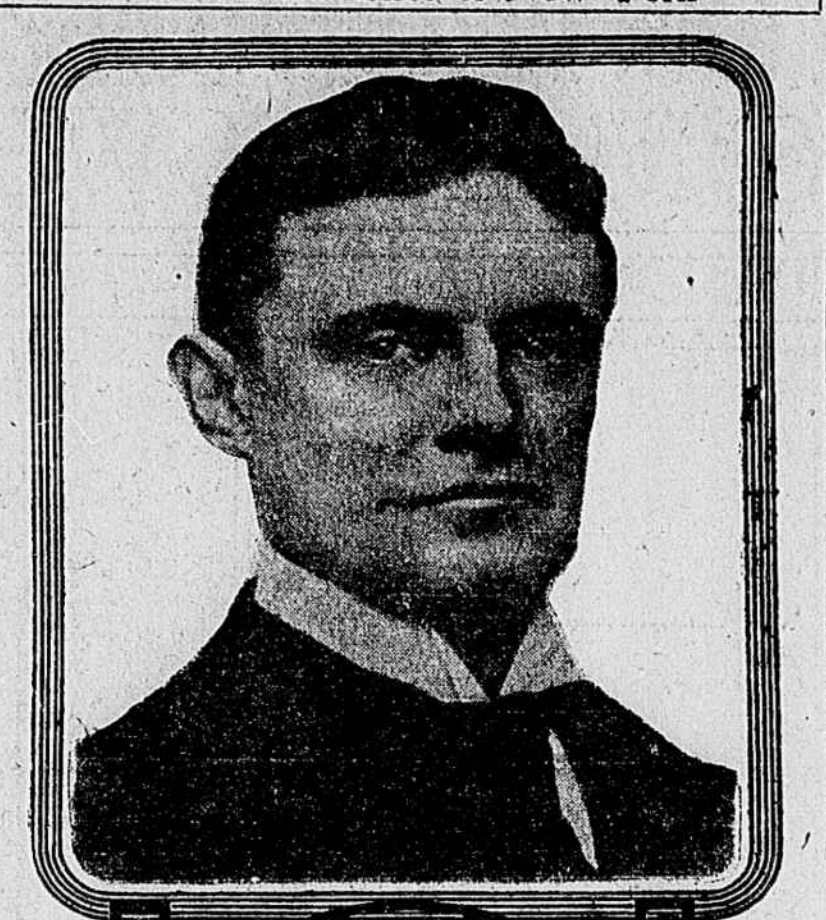

Dr. B. Blake Minor, Jr., son of Dr. B. Blake Minor, died on Sunday at his home in Beaumont, Texas, at 5 P. M. He was a native of Tennessee, and though a native of Tennessee, spent a great part of his life in Richmond. Dr. Minor took his degree at high honor, from McDowell's Medical College, in St. Louis, and began his practice as a surgeon at Iron Mountain, Mo. He was also associated with General Custer's second expedition to the Yellowstone, and with Professor Agassiz, the naturalist, on the West coast. His later years were spent in Savannah, Ga., and Beaumont, Tex., where he engaged in the cotton business, and also in Beaumont.

Of a very lovable disposition and with a keen sense of humor, he endeavored himself to many friends, and loving hands have ministered to him in his late illness, which resulted from an attack of paralysis on Wednesday last. His wife, who was Matilda Hutchison, of Beaumont, survives him, with one brother, William P. Minor, of Salt Lake City, and three sisters, Misses Viola V. Jane and Zelle Minor, of Richmond. The funeral services took place Tuesday morning in Beaumont.

J. A. McCrane.

News was received here last night announcing the death of J. A. McCrane, which occurred on Monday at his home in Scranton, Pa. Mr. McCrane was a traveling salesman, and was highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends in Richmond, who will be grieved at the news of his passing.

Elected Governor of New York

CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

NEW FACES IN THE SENATE

Present. State. New.

Francis S. Wright, Alabama, Oscar W. Underwood.
George C. Perkins, California, Joseph R. Knowland.
William S. West, Georgia, Thomas W. Hardwick.
Joseph L. Bristow, Kansas, Victor Murdock.
William O. Bradley, Kentucky, Johnson N. Camden.
Ollie M. James, Kentucky, J. C. W. Beckman.
John R. Thornton, Louisiana, R. P. Broussard.
Ellhu Root, New York, James W. Wadsworth, Jr.
Theo. E. Burton, Ohio, Warren G. Harding.
Coo L. Crawford, South Dakota, Charles H. Burke.
Isaac Stephenson, Wisconsin, Francis E. McGovern.

ward C. Carrington, Jr., by about 15,000 majority. The improvement loans for Baltimore city have been carried.

The First, Second, Third and Fourth Congressional Districts have returned Democrats, according to present indications.

The Fifth District is in doubt, and the Sixth is probably Republican. The latter district is at present represented by Congressman Lewis, Democrat, father of the parcel post.

Harris Elected Governor.

ATLANTA, GA., November 3.—Georgia to-day elected to the United States Senate the Democratic nominees, Hoke Smith and Thomas W. Hardwick. Nat E. Harris, Democrat, was elected Governor. All Democratic congressional nominees were elected.

Smith Returns to Senate.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 3.—United States Senator E. D. Smith, Democrat, was re-elected Senator and Richard I. Manning, was elected Governor, and the seven Democratic congressional nominees were elected.

Neither Smith nor Manning had opposition.

Congressman Burnett Wins.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., November 3.—Early returns throughout the State show the election of the entire State Democratic ticket, including Congressman Burnett, in the Seventh District, where the only formidable opposition was made against the Democratic nominees.

Entire Ticket is Elected.

DALLAS, TEXAS, November 3.—The entire Democratic State and congressional ticket was elected in Texas to-day.

No Upsets in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., November 3.—Senator Fletcher and the entire Florida Democratic congressional delegation were re-elected to-day.

Governors Elected

Alabama—Charles Henderson, Democrat.

California—George P. Hunt, Democrat.

Colorado—George A. Carlson, Republican.

Connecticut—Marcus H. Holcomb, Republican.

Georgia—Nat E. Harris, Democrat.

Iowa—John M. Haines, Republican.

Kansas—George H. Hodges, Democrat.

Massachusetts—David I. Walsh, Democrat.

Michigan—W. N. Ferris, Democrat.

Minnesota—William E. Lee, Republican.

Nebraska—J. H. Moorehead, Democrat.

Nevada—T. L. Oddie, Republican.

New Hampshire—R. H. Spaulding, Republican.

New York—Charles S. Whitman, Republican.

North Dakota—L. B. Hanna, Republican.

Ohio—James M. Cox, Democrat.

Oklahoma—R. L. Williams, Democrat.

Oregon—James Withycomb, Republican.

Pennsylvania—Martin G. Brumbaugh, Republican.

Rhode Island—D. R. Livingston, Republican.

South Carolina—Richard E. Manning, Democrat.

South Dakota—F. M. Payne, Republican.

Tennessee—George C. Rye, Democrat.

Texas—James E. Ferguson, Democrat.

Vermont—Charles W. Gates, Republican.

Wisconsin—Emanuel L. Philipp, Republican.

Wyoming—J. D. Kendrick, Democrat and Progressive.

TAMMANY SECRETARY

ADMITS WHITMAN'S ELECTION

NEW YORK, November 3.—Secretary Smith, of Tammany Hall, said at 7:45 to-night, that the returns then available, indicated a plurality of 45,000 for Glynn in New York City and a plurality of 150,000 for Whitman in the entire State.

The Times, Independent, says indications are that Whitman, Republican, for Governor, and Wadsworth, Republican, for Lieutenant Governor, will be elected. The Herald says: "Whitman victory certain. Wadsworth, Republican, will be elected Senator." The Brooklyn Eagle claims Whitman has carried the State for Governor. Republican State Committee headquarters say Whitman has been elected Governor of New York by a landslide.

BALTIMORE TO BE-ELECTED.

BALTIMORE, MD., November 2.—Indications at 7 o'clock were that John Walter Smith, Democrat, for United States Senator, has been re-elected over his Republican opponent, Colonel Ed-

WOMEN AND PROHIBITION HAVE LITTLE SUCCESS

Seven States Undertake to Determine Whether Equal Suffrage Shall Be Granted.

AT LEAST FOUR DEFEAT IT

Ohio, Missouri and Two Dakotas Decide Woman's Place Is in Home. Prohibition Put to Test, and Returns Are Against It.

Seven States undertook to decide in yesterday's elections whether women should be granted the equal suffrage. They were Ohio, Missouri North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and Nevada.

Returns that had come in up to the hour of going to press indicate that in at least four of these Commonwealths—Ohio, Missouri and the two Dakotas—women's place still is in the home. The other three had not tabulated returns sufficiently to allow a prognostication as to the result.

In Ohio the women remained about their headquarters in great numbers, and in spite of disheartening returns from district after district, they refused to give up hope. Almost certain defeat for the movement was forecast in the minds of experienced politicians when the returns for the city of Columbus were completed.

Here the women had made a great campaign, and every indication was favorable until the vote was counted. Then it was found that, instead of piling up the great majority which even their opponents had half-heartedly conceded them, the suffragists had lost by 3,000.

The cause of prohibition was also put to the test in Ohio, as well as in Arizona, California, Colorado, Oregon and Washington. In the Buckeye State the same people who decided that they did not want woman suffrage apparently cast their votes in favor of the "demon rum," for prohibition was beaten by nearly the same figures as suffrage.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have an excellent chance to carry the State on the liquor issue alone.

The Western theatre of war against alcohol produced no definite results up to the hour of going to press. California reported the probable defeat of "dry," while Arizona districts in the vicinity of Phoenix gave unexpectedly such a strong vote for prohibition that Eugene Chubb, prohibition candidate for the United States Senate, announced at midnight that the State had gone "dry," and had elected him to the upper house of the nation's Congress. This was believed to be a premature announcement, but even Marcus Smith, whose election to succeed himself in the Senate was contested by every body except Mr. Chubb, admitted that the "dry" seemed to have